CHAPMAN

CHAPPMAN. CHEPPMAN. KAUFMAN

The Saxon word, Chapman, means a chapman, marketman, trader, monger or merchant. In Germany the name is Kaufman.

An Act of Edward VI speaks of "person or persons commonly called peddler, tynker or pety chapman." In old reference is found. Chapman: Occupation "the chapman." The earliest chapman was stationary with high consideration, the traveling chapman was of a lower grade. A variety of Chappman and Cheppman. These were written as pronounced and it was not unusual, in ones lifetime, to have the name spelled in a number of ways. It is interesting to note also that the most common name given to Chapmans during their centuries in England were John and William.

The Chapman Motto:

CRESCIT SUB PONDERE VIRTUS
Virtue thrives beneath oppression

The first record of the name Chapman appears in Cambridgeshire, England, in the 12th century where they lived well before the Norman Conquest and the arrival of Duke William at Hastings in the year 1066AD.

The Chapman name is descended originally from the ancient Anglo Saxon race that arrived in England from Northern Germany and the Rhine Valley about the year 400 AD.

In 1606 England, under King Harold, was enjoying relative peace and prosperity. However, the Norman invasion and their victory at the Battle of Hastings, caused many of the vanquished Saxon landowners to forfeit their holdings to Duke William and his invading noble. The Saxons were ill at ease under Norman rule and, over the next four centuries, many moved north into Lancashire and Yorkshire where Norman influence was less prevalent. It is here we find the roots of most of the current Chapmans.

As previously mentioned, Chapman emerged as a notable English family name during the 11th century in the County of Cambridgeshire, where they are recorded as holding land and serving their community.

By the 13th and 14th centuries the name Chapman had branched to Rainthrope Hall in Norfolk, Thringston, Highbury Park in Middlesex, Yorkshire, Worcestershire and Essex. The Chapman family was granted patents of nobility at an early date in England, Ireland and Scotland, and became distinguished in civil and military life, as well as in the realm of letters.

Religious conflict plagued England after 1500 as Puritanism under Oliver Cromwell took a foothold against the powerful Roman Church. Followers of Protestantism, among them the name Chapman, were oppressed over the three centuries and many families either renounced their faith or were banished. This, combined with the great financial strife of the day, encouraged many to leave their homeland.

A book called "THE CHAPBOOK", obviously edited by some member of the Chapman family, was very popular in the mid 17th century and was peddled from door to door throughout England. "THE CHAPBOOK" was an unstitched pamphlet, usually consisting of about 70 folded pages, and contained versions of popular literature ranging from nursery rhymes to medieval romances.

By the early 1600s the New World was beckoning the adventurous. Many ill-equipped, undermanned and overloaded ships sailed from England. This armada became known as the "white sails" or "coffin ships". The over crowded vessels were plagued with cholera, small pox, typhoid and the stormy North Atlantic, and quite often 30-40% of those on board never reached their dream. Quite often on these ships rosters can be found the name Chapman.

Among the first settlers who landed.

Settler	Location arrival/settlement	Year
Francis Chapman	landed - Virginia	1623
George Chapman	settled - Barbados	1635
Benjamin Chapman	arrived - the colonies	1674
Henry Chapman	settled - Jamaica	1684
James Chapman	arrived - Maryland	1747
William Chapman	arrived - Fort Cumberland, Nova Scotia	1774

BATTLE HYMN OF THE CHAPMANS^{xxx}

(tune: Battle Hymn of the Republic)

There's something strong and mighty in a noble family name; And the name of Chapman shineth high upon the scroll of fame
For nearly all the Chapman's have pursued a lofty aim. The clan goes marching on!

Chorus GLORY TO THE NAME OF Chapman GLORY TO THE NAME OF Chapman HURRAH, HURRAH FOR ALL THE ChapmanS! THE CLAN GOES MARCHING ON.

The house of Chapman cherishes traditions of the past; And with the worlds great movements the have all their fortunes cast;
And when they pledge their honor they are loyal to the last. The Clan goes marching on!

The Chapman tribe is virile as their fathers were of old; Each century their numbers have increased a hundredfold; Of all the worlds great families the Chapmans are pure gold; The Clan goes marching on!

Chapmans hail from England, Scotland and the Emerald Isle; We love our British Cousin in that ancient Saxon style: Bloods thicker than water separating us awhile. The Clan goes marching on!

The Chapmans are all loyal to the good old U.S.A. We love the flag of freedom and will follow it for aye. The Chapmans do their duty and never run away. The Clan goes marching on!

To every corner of our land we sound the bugle call; A hundred thousand Chapmans hear and answer one and all. You can hear the Chapmans tramping like Niagara's waterfall. The Clan goes marching on!

If you claim the name of Chapman, join a chorus of the Clan. In our Records and Reunions all according to our plan. The name in highest honor - boost it every way you can. The Clan goes marching on!

Jonathan "Johnny" "Appleseed" Chapman

6.3.1.4.2.2. Jonathan "Johnny" "Appleseed" Chapman, son of Nathaniel & Elizabeth (Symond) Chapman, b. 26 Sept 1774, Leominster, Massachusetts; d. 18 March 1845, Fort Wayne, Indiana after more than 50 years of travel. He never married nor had any issue.

Johnny began his journey westward around 1797. "Johnny Appleseed" was not a scatter of seeds many people believe. He was a practical nurseryman. He realized that there was a real need and an opportunity for service in supplying seeds and seedlings. For the most part, moving ahead of the pioneers, Johnny started many nurseries throughout the Midwest by planting seeds, which he bought, from cider mills in Pennsylvania.

In order to assure stability of the newly established homesteads, the law required each settler to plant fifty apple trees the first year. Because of the poor transportation that existed in the interior in those days, apples were a practical necessity in the early settlers' diets. John Chapman, or Johnny Appleseed, owned many tracts of land throughout Ohio and Indiana. He used this land to plant apple seeds, transplant seedlings and set out orchards. He sold and gave trees to the pioneer settlers.

John Chapman spread religion as well as apples. A deeply religious man, John Chapman became a self-appointed missionary for the Church of the New Jerusalem, a Christian Church based on the Biblical interpretations of Emanuel Swedenborg, a Swedish scientist and theologian. John shared his religious tracts and his Bible with the settlers who listened to him. His love for his neighbor made him accepted as a peacemaker between the Indians and the settlers.

Operating on the family “story” that Johnny Appleseed is their 6th Great Uncle. I have been working both forward and backwards from this “assumption”. I began with the parents of John Appleseed and his half-brothers. Generation 7: the four half-brothers of Johnny Appleseed who had male issue. It is at this point that I am prohibited from coming forward in time due to the lack of information for generations 8, 9, 10, & 11. For lack of ability to continue in this direction I proceeded to trace back Nathaniel Chapman’s ancestry. The designators beside each name refers to that person as they are shown in the previous section of genealogy.

Paternostre. Patnau. Patneaude. Patno. Patnoad. Patnod. Patnode. Pattenaude. Pattnoau. Pattnod. Pattnotte. Penno

(French Canadian)

Regardless of how you spell it, most of us are probably descended from common ancestors, Nicolas Patenaude/Patenostre and Marguerite Breton, who arrived in the new world (New France, today called Quebec, part of Canada) in the mid-17th century. The variety of spellings, combined with the geographic dispersion of the family across the entire Northern Hemisphere, have made it difficult to research our family tree, so we decided to make use of modern technology, and make it a group effort. Won't you join us?

Rev. Gerard Patenaude, in his A Pat(e)naude (1900) Patnode (1800) Paternostre (1260) Story, which delineates the Patenaude line in the state of Maine, lists the following spelling variations in the name between 1650 and 1950: Paternostre, Patenotre, Pattenostre, Pastrenostre, Patnod, Patnaud, Patenot, Patnaude, Patenote, Patenotre, Pattenode, Patenode, Pattenaude. In northwestern Vermont and northeastern New York, Patnoe, Patno, Peno, and even Pedno have shown up among some of the other variations. So, take heart folks, we're probably all a lot closer related than we think!

 cccclvi "The Titles Cabinet of the national Library (in France) has a file (blue) No.513 in which we find a genealogical summary of the PatenostreS in Bretagne. . . In this file, we find a complete lineage of the PatenostreS of Bretagne.

ccclvii One cannot but notice the striking resemblance and coincidence between the marriage of Gilles' sister, Marguerite to Laurent LeBreton in France and the marriage of Nicolas to Marguerite Breton in Quebec, in 1651. We could easily assume that they might have been related somehow and that they knew each other before the came together to Quebec. - Rev. Gerard Patenaude, in his A Pat(e)naude (1900) Patnode (1800) Paternostre (1260) Story
